

New Zealand Short Term Training Scholarships

Good Governance

Course Overview

The Good Governance Course has been created to teach participants how to promote principles of stewardship – good governance, ethics, integrity and transparency – in their professional work and will draw on good practice examples from New Zealand. It will also support the development of more effective and inclusive systems of local and national governance in participants home countries.

This is an intensive short course designed for participants from the Pacific who are currently in middle and senior management positions.

The design, management and delivery of the course is run by staff of the Public Policy Institute at the University of Auckland. Leading expertise from the University of Auckland, the School of Population Health, and the Business School as well as industry experts who are considered world-class authorities will also be invited to present on various aspects of content to ensure the highest quality content.

Delivery Management and Presenting Team

Professor Jennifer Curtin, Director of the Public Policy Institute, oversees all aspects of the programme, is part of the introductory and completion sessions, and contributes to modules on good governance, public leadership, and inclusive trade.

Dr Suzanne Woodward and Dr Oluwakemi Igiebor are the Course Coordinators; they manage the pre-course induction process, access to our learning management system, coordinate pastoral care throughout each course, and maintain connections with scholars throughout. Suzanne and Kemi also contribute expert content on topics related to communication, participation, and inclusive leadership, and share the management of each live online session.

The Public Policy Institute appoint scholar success advisors who have knowledge of the regions from which the scholars are drawn. This is done on a course-by-course basis, to provide both intellectual and culturally sensitive care and support. The Scholar Success Adviser runs two drop-in sessions online each week and contributes to break-out room activities during each session.

Each course also has an Academic Lead: The Public Sector Leadership Course is led by Professor Jennifer Curtin. The lead contributes content and select other relevant expert academics and practitioners as contributors.
