TABLE OF CONTENTS

NOTICE TO PARTICIPANTS AND THEIR MANAGERS OR SUPERVISORS

IPAM welcomes participants from within the Public Service throughout the Solomon Islands both in the provinces and Honiara.

When participating in IPAM Learning and Development programs, participants and their Manager or Supervisor hold certain responsibilities. These responsibilities are provided in detail within each program descriptions.

IPAM invites all potential participants to familiarize themselves with the IPAM Professional Standards. Although it does not happen very often, the caution is poor performance or disruptive behavior may lead to officers being directed to leave IPAM courses.

IPAM Courses offered this year (2024) are scheduled in the training schedule for Honiara and Provinces (pg. 9). The IPAM courses which not scheduled are not offered for this year 2024.

COURSE LEVELS AND CODING

To help our clients to make the right selection for their needs, this prospectus includes a coding system that identifies three different levels of program:

INTRODUCTION: These courses are designed to address basic knowledge and skills development needs, and are suitable for most Public Officers.

INTERMEDIATE: These courses and programs are designed with some level of assumed prior knowledge or experience within the specific field of development. They are suitable for more experienced Public Officers.

ADVANCED: These courses and programs offer an advanced development opportunity, and are designed to suit very experienced Public Officers with well-developed professional skills.

ACCREDITED: These courses and programs are offered by other institutions in partnership with IPAM. Public officers who wish to apply for this accredited training must first complete the Leadership Development Program (LDP) or any other advanced eligible training at IPAM.

The coding system described herein are for all IPAM courses. Please see course coding at appendix A12.4 for further details.

1.0 INTRODUCTION

It is my privilege and honor to present the Institute of Public Administration and Management (IPAM) Learning and Development Prospectus for the year 2024.

The Institute of Public Administration and Management (IPAM) is a division within the Ministry of Public Service (MPS). It is mandated to be the training arm of the Solomon Islands Government. This mandate involves building the capacity of Solomon Islands Public Service Workforce on role-focused trainings. This covers programs and courses in disciplines such as Public Administration and Supervision, Leadership and Management, Information and Communication Technology skills, Financial Management and Public Service Systems and Procedures.

The IPAM Learning and Development Prospectus 2024 contains comprehensive information on the training programs and eligibility requirements that would guide participants and supervisors when choosing courses and programs offered by IPAM. The information that are provided in the Prospectus includes; training schedules, admission requirements and the courses that are offered under the IPAM Training Units. The training units are; Corporate Learning and Development Unit (CLDU), Information and Communication Technology Unit (ICTU) and Leadership and Management Development Unit (LMDU).The other units within IPAM to provide necessary supporting roles for the training units.

The IPAM Learning and Development Prospectus 2024, embraces the vision and mission of IPAM, that is, it focuses on being a leading Institution in Learning and Development that contributes to the creation of skilled, professional and ethical public service that is empowered to provide public values and service delivery to the community. This year 2024 the institute will trial two of its reviewed courses when fully completed and support accredited trainings from recognized training institutions both in country and abroad. IPAM is recognized by   the Solomon Islands Government and other Stakeholders/Partners as the leading Institution which enrich Public Officers' capability and competence through role based training and capacity building.

 IPAM will endeavor to maintain its status as a leading institute of excellence in learning and development. We are determined to collaborate with our stakeholders and partners to coordinate and provide demand driven trainings for all public service.

I urge all line Ministry's HRM and cooperate team to fully utilize the training opportunities for their officers in which IPAM division in the Ministry of Public Service offers according to the IPAM Learning and Development Prospectus 2024.   I wish all our stakeholders for a successful year of learning and development in 2024.

God Bless

5.0 ABOUT IPAM

IPAM was established in 2005 and had developed into a premier training institution for the public officers in the country as well as the region. It offers reputable courses that focuses on role-based and hands on trainings (on the job trainings). The establishment of IPAM therefore focuses on enhancing and enriching work performances of the public service officers.

IPAM is a division within the ministry of Public Service. It is mandated to carry out training for public officers stipulated under Cap 92/ 4 – 1 (c), in the Public Service Act. IPAM has four units; Leadership and Management Unit (LMDU), the Corporate Learning and Development Unit (CLDU), Strategic Planning Unit (SPU), Program Design and Development Unit (PDDU) and the Business Support Unit(BSU) which oversees the administration and management of the training schedules in liaison with the training Units.

IPAM offers variety of courses and programs that cover mostly areas of induction and corporate administration/management, leadership and basic technical courses, ICT courses and liaises with other institution for accredited courses on short and long-term basis. Most of the courses that are offered in this are work related enrichment tools or role based trainings designed to enhance the capacity of public services officers' to provide effective and efficient delivery of service. It awards certificates to public officers who have undertaken these courses upon completion. Obtaining an IPAM certificate has been proven to increase the capacity of public officers and has assisted many public officers to excel in their duties.

IPAM is now working with stakeholders to develop its training to meet the contemporary needs in this New Public Management Era. This is by linking up with local, regional and international training or academic institutions to provide courses and programs that would assist public officers to acquire relevant qualifications skills, knowledge and ethics. It also forges relationship with donors to support its aspirations and to develop its training facilities and capabilities to meet the growing demand and relevant training opportunities for its clients.

You are encouraged to choose IPAM for your training and development plans, because it is a government funded program that offers contextualized enrichment and role-based trainings. An Institution that would help you to acquire hands-on and enrichment trainings within the Public Service. This will empower you to work effectively and efficiently, ethically and would support you to build a successful career. Furthermore, it will support you towards a high satisfaction job within the public sector.

6.0 IPAM PRINCIPLES AND STANDARDS
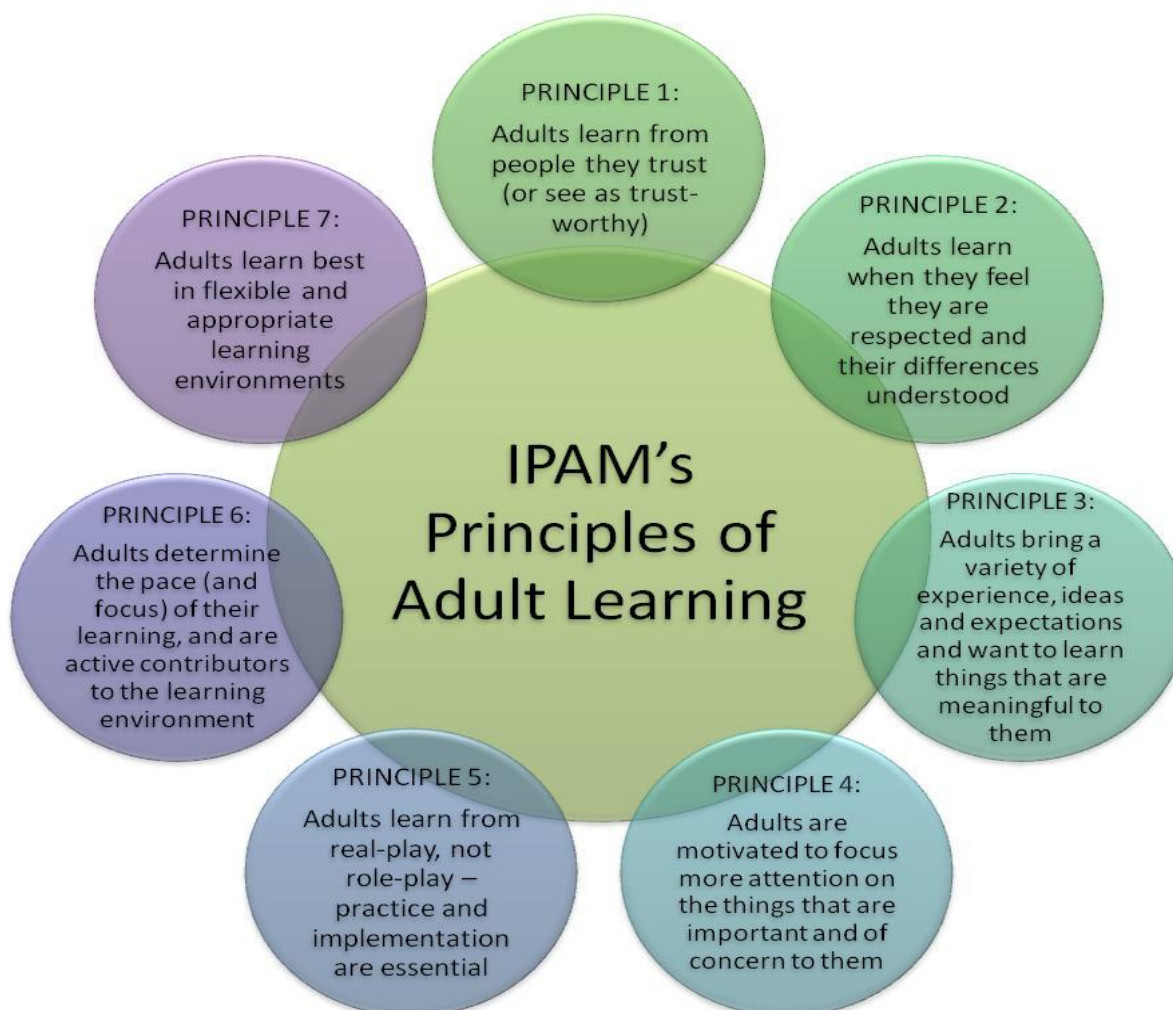

6.1 IPAM PROFESSIONAL STANDARDS

IPAM's Professional Standards are a statement of the values and practices that guide the way in which IPAM operates. We offer a summary of our Professional Standards so that Ministries can share in our aspirations and support IPAM's efforts in living to these standards.

Honesty and Integrity
- We take action consistent with these values and capabilities.
- We are responsible for earning and sustaining public trust by being honest, open and transparent in all matters of public administration.

Pride and Sense of Duty
- We take pride in promoting unity of purpose and being patriotic through the delivery of learning and development programs.
- We display a sense of duty, commitment and dedication.

Accountability
- We take personal responsibility for achieving results by working to clear objectives and through the best use of financial, physical and human resources.
- We always accept the consequences of actions or decisions that they make.

Merit and Equal Opportunity
- We make decisions and treat people without prejudice.
- We ensure decisions are made without patronage, favouritism or political influence.

Achievement and Self Confidence
- We believe in our own ability and celebrate our achievements.
- We are not be afraid to acknowledge our strengths and weaknesses and to seek development guidance.

Creativity and Innovation
- We encourage innovation and continuous improvement in design and management of programs.

- We understand and work to meet the needs of customers, manage expectations and strive to demonstrate a work ethic that exceeds commitments that have been given.

6.2 IPAM PRINCIPLES OF ADULT LEARNING

IPAM's strategic intention is to ensure that the approach taken to the design, delivery and management of learning and development in the Solomon Islands Public Service is aligned with Adult Learning Principles. To support the achievement of this intention, IPAM has identified a set of principles that inform their approach and provide a guide for all future activities.

Since 2011, IPAM has been working hard to ensure that the programs they offer are in line with their Adult Learning Principles. To this end an important document has been produced: The Guideline for Review and Design of IPAM Learning and Development Programs. The Guideline provides practical instructions on how to ensure that IPAM's programs support effective adult learning, and in particular consider how IPAM can support the application of learning on-the-job. The Guideline is being used in the design of new programs and in the review of existing ones.

PRINCIPLE 1:
Adults learn from people they trust (or see as trust-worthy)

PRINCIPLE 2:
Adults learn when they feel they are respected and their differences understood

PRINCIPLE 3:
Adults bring a variety of experience, ideas and expectations and want to learn things that are meaningful to them

PRINCIPLE 4:
Adults are motivated to focus more attention on the things that are important and of concern to them

PRINCIPLE 5:
Adults learn from real-play, not role-play — practice and implementation are essential

PRINCIPLE 6:
Adults determine the pace (and focus) of their learning, and are active contributors to the learning environment

PRINCIPLE 7:
Adults learn best in flexible and appropriate learning environments

7.0 INDUCTION SERIES - CODE OF CONDUCT AND KNOWING YOUR PUBLIC SERVICE

7.1 COC: CODE OF CONDUCT

INTRODUCTORY

Course Overview

Solomon Islands Public Service (SIPS) strives for a standard excellence in service delivery as a benchmark in delivering public services. Therefore, SIPS Code of Conduct was developed as the standard code for all ministries and provinces. This course determines to serve as a guide to the everyday professional conduct of Public Officers.

Code of Conduct Course comprises of SIPS Code of Conduct five key principles;

- Respect for the Law and Government
- Respect for people
- Integrity
- Diligence
- Economy and Efficiency

Attending this course will enable officers to be aware about standards and expectations, while serving the wider community. Public Officers are expected to live and achieve continuous high standard of ethical work performance to ensure that individuals, and the Public Service as a whole deliver 'best practice' public services.

Successfully completing this course will inform and empower Public Officers of their responsibilities as a Public Officer operating under the code and consequences for breaching the Code. Significantly, Public Officers to acknowledge their obligatory understanding under the Code and willingness to comply with SIPS Code of Conduct.

Target Group

This course was designed for all public officers and direct employees for all Provincial Governments. Ideally the course aimed to provide the added value in ethical work behaviour and attitude. This course is also a requirement for confirmation and promotions in the Public Service of Solomon Islands.

Course Summary
Duration	1/2 Day
Approach to Workplace Learning	Guided workplace application
Maximum No of Participants	35
Delivery Locations	Honiara and Provinces

7.2 KYPS: KNOWING YOUR PUBLIC SERVICE

INTRODUCTORY

This series includes core service wide learning and development courses and programs relating to public administration and management. The focus of this series was identified through the IPAM service wide training needs analysis and is refined through ongoing consultations with Ministries.

Course Overview

This course aims to improve the understanding of public officers about the broader operations of Solomon Islands Government with its responsibilities when delivering services to the citizens of the Solomon Islands. The course is suitable for both long serving and new public officers.

This course includes four key elements; preprogram learning by participants, cross cutting topics, learning and development theory and the application of learning in the work place. The methodology embraces an integrated approach to learning and development such as; facilitated discussions, workshops, field trips, role-plays, and projects and assignments.

Subject matter includes laws that regulate the operations of the public service, an overview of organization structures, and the roles and function(s) of central and line Ministries as well as key policies, systems and procedures. This course also aims to assist officers in fostering mutual respect and an understanding of the importance of ethical relationships between other officers in the Public Service, the community, and the elected Government.

The course comprises eight modules:

> Module 1: Professional Standards
>
> Module 2: The Public Service as an Organization
>
> Module 3: The Parliament
>
> Module 4: Legal Framework of the Public Service
>
> Module 5: Public Service Systems, Procedures and Work Practices
>
> Module 6: Human Resource Management in the Public Service.
>
> Module 7: Improving Relations in the Work Place
>
> Module 8: Work Place Projects or Assignments.

Module 1 and Module 7 make up the cross cutting topics. These are "IPAM Professional Standards" and "Improving Relations in the Work Place". Module 1 IPAM Professional Standards deals with behaviors and work practices that are expected of IPAM Officers and participants when delivering or attending learning and development courses at IPAM. Module 7 Improving Relations in the Work Place deals with forms of harassment and discrimination in the workplace, diversity, and how mutual respect can contribute to work place productivity and the well-being of public officers.

Module 8 Workplace Projects or Assignments is a crucial component of the course. Participants will be tasked with a project or assignment that they will be required to complete within the time allocated to the course. This will require the cooperation and support of Managers/Supervisors. Participants will be advised of the projects or assignments during the course of study.

Target Group

Although priority will be given to public officers who are in the first six months of service, IPAM encourages nominations for this course from officers regardless of experience.

Managers/Supervisors and Participants Responsibilities

Pre-course reading is a requirement for all participants. Participants who are nominated to attend the course will be sent a pre-course study kit prior to the commencement of the course.

In collaboration with their Managers/Supervisors participants are required to collect information relating to the roles, functions, goals, and objectives of the Ministry in which they are employed. The information they collect will form the basis for presentations that participants will be required to give during the course. If more than one officer from the same Ministry is accepted into the course, they may collaborate on this assignment providing they all participate in the final presentation. IPAM has equipment that will aid presentations including white boards, projectors and chart paper.

If it becomes evident that participants have not read the material provided or they have not prepared a presentation, they may not be eligible for receiving certificates.

This is a compulsory course for all officers entering the Public Service. Before officers are confirmed, they must have completed this course.

Course Summary
Duration	10 Days
Total Workshop Days	9 Days (includes field trips)
Approach to Workplace Learning	1 Days to complete Workplace Project or Assignment (Module 8)
Maximum No of Participants	35
Requirement for Certification	Attendance at full 9 Day program
Delivery Locations	Honiara and Provinces
The Provincial outstation training for this course will only be conducted for 5 days (field trips not included)

8.0 CORPORATE LEARNING AND DEVELOPMENT SERIES (CLDS)

8.1 CLDS: DEVELOPING WORKPLACE PROCEDURES

INTERMEDIATE

Course Overview

Policies and procedures are an essential part of any organization since they reduce the risk of problems arising. A policy is a statement on a specific issue that clarifies the overall standards applied to work practices, delegations and responsibilities. It explains employer and employee rights and accountabilities and the consequences of failing to adhere to the standards. Without clear policies there are no clear directions for the organization and we can end up with a chaotic and hostile work environment.

Procedures are developed to ensure that Policies are put into practice. A Policy may require a number of procedures to be developed to ensure that staff clearly understands how to apply the Policy in their everyday work activities.

This course is designed to enable public officers to be more aware of the necessary processes involved in developing generic policies and procedures in the workplace.

Course content includes:

- The Policy Cycle
- Types of Policies
- Policy Development Process
- Policy Content
- Procedure development process

Target Group

Level 6 and above

Managers/Supervisors and Participants Responsibilities

Participants are encouraged to familiarize themselves with Chapter C – Conduct and Discipline section of the General Orders and the Solomon Islands Public Service Code of Conduct.

8.2 CLDS: ENGAGING ADULT LEARNERS

Course Overview

INTERMEDIATE

This course is specifically designed to equip IPAM Associate Trainers and Guest Speakers to be able to effectively engage adult participants in IPAM programs. Delivering specialist information to adult learners requires much more than just "telling" participants what you know. In order to help facilitate learning, Associate Trainers and Guest Speakers must also understand how to design their program module to engage participants so that they interact, explore and make sense of the information provided. Adult learning is an autonomous process, and the role of the Associate trainer is to create an "environment" that is conducive to effective learning.

Participants in this program will learn some practical steps that they can take to design their approach and deliver their material as effectively as possible. They will be provided with a practical Guideline to assist their planning so that they can confidently work to IPAM's Principles of Adult Learning.

Target Group

IPAM Associate trainers and IPAM Guest Speakers. Prospective Associate Trainers and Guest Speakers are also welcome.

Course Summary
Total Workshop Days	3 Days
Approach to Workplace Learning	IPAM will provide ongoing coaching support to help participants apply what they learn to improve their own delivery when they next deliver in an IPAM program
Maximum No of Participants	35
Requirement for Certification	Attendance at all workshop days
Delivery Locations	Honiara

8.3 CLDS: CUSTOMER SERVICE ALWAYS

INTERMEDIATE

Course Overview

This course enables public officers to better understand the principles of customer service, how to enhance service delivery and improve customer care and management.

Target Group

Any public officer who provides customer service to another ministry or the community.

Managers/Supervisors and Participants Responsibilities.

Course Summary
Total Workshop Days	3 Days

8.4 CLDS: RECORDS MANAGEMENT

INTERMEDIATE

Course Overview

Records Management course is a training that government (public) officers are required to undergo. This training highlights the processes and procedures of records management as stipulated by the Archives Act 1996. All public officers work with documents (either electronic or physical) in their workplaces. These documents will need managed by filing, retrieving, storing transferring and eventually be disposed. Thus all officers are required to take this course especially the public officers who work in the registry and records units of line ministries.

This is a three 3 days course that includes training room learning, guest speaker addresses and training room activities, a field trip and a workplace project.

The course has five modules; Module 1: Introduction to records management; Module 2: Records Identification; Module 3: Handling Storing and Accessing Records; Module 4: Records Performance and Risk Management and Module 5: Disposal of Records. Details of the three days training can be obtained from the course timetable and the course participant manual.

Target Group

This course is important for all officers who work in the registry and records units of line ministries. Officers who are ready to take up responsibilities in the registry and records units are also encouraged to attend this course.

Managers/Supervisors and Participants Responsibilities

Participants are expected to be self - motivated to learn to develop understanding, knowledge and skills required to carry out an effective and efficient records management in the workplace. They must fully engaged in various learning approaches required of this course. Managers and Supervisors are also encouraged to support their officers in implementing and applying the knowledge and skills learned from this course in their respective workplaces.

8.5 CLDS: ETHICS AND GOVERNANCE

INTERMEDIATE

Course Overview

Issues of misconduct and official corruption by public servants have tarnished the public service sector. At the center of some of these scandals are high ranking officials who graduated from renowned institutions. Due to this, Solomon Islands Public Service integrity is perceived to be declining.

The Ethics and Governance course aims to empower public officers in the Level 6 and above bracket who completed the Code of Conduct. It will highlight legislative practices and personal development to uphold ethical leadership in their respective service delivery domains.

This course will engage Solomon Islands Public Servants in identifying ethical issues and to establish propositions to develop an ethical public service with high standards. It envisages that experienced and learned public officers will share their experiences and create awareness about ethical dilemmas and how they encounter these dilemmas/challenges.

The course is divided into four modules. The objectives of each module are outlined in detail at the start of each module. The module topics include:

Module 1: Theories and Definitions of Ethnics

Module 2: Solomon Islands Public Service Ethnic and Standards

Module 3: Managing Unethical Practices

Module 4: Nurturing the Ethics Within

Target Group

Level 6 and above bracket who have completed the Public Service Code of Conduct training.

Managers/Supervisors and Participants Responsibilities

Learning and development resources will be provided to participants prior to the commencement of the course. Participants are also expected to familiarize themselves with the resources provided to ensure they can fully participate in all aspects of the course. They must also attend and actively participate in all the sessions of the course. Managers and Supervisors are also encouraged to support their officers in implementing and applying the learning in their respective workplaces.

Course Summary
